Endeavor to Secure Titles by Fraud, Declares Chief of Field Division, U. S. Land Office

HE SENDS RESIGNATION TO SECRETARY WILBUR

Some of Companies Were Involved In Teapot Dome Investigation; Use Political Pressure, Claim

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28 (UP)—A charge that a combination of oil concerns, including some that figured in the Fall-Sinclair Teapot Dome investigations, are being granted concessions in western Colorado oil shale fields against the best interest of the public were made in a letter of resignation submitted to Secretary of Interior Ray Lyman Wilbur Sunday night by Ralph S. Kelley, chief of the land division of the U. S. general land office, with headquarters in Denver.

Kelly did not name the concerns nor go into detail regarding his charges. He also declined to amplify his letter when questioned later.

A Huge Prize

He described the oil shale deposits in western Colorado as conservatively containing 40,000,000,000 barrels of oil, valued at current prices of forty billion dollars.

"This is the huge prize," Kelly said, "to which the large oil interests are endeavoring to secure title by fraud and failure to comply with the requirements for the U. S. mining laws. These oil interests are thoroughly organized and act concertedly in bringing pressure to bear upon the department of the interior to induce it to give them those valuable oil lands, but to which they are not entitled. A vivent person named Hitler, loose in Germany, worries some and frightens stock speculators in London, by his ravagings. Head of the fascist movement, which will never rule the thoughtful people of Germany, he promises, when he comes in power, to set up the guillotine, and "heads will roll in the dust."

There is an old German named Hindenburg, that words do not frighten. Mr. Hitler will do well to look to the safety of his own head.

De Broeckere, Belgian senator, president of the League of Nations aviations commission, says Mussolini's government is preparing for war on the Albanian border, and along the Alps. Hitler's fascist outburst, and his promise to guillotine those that established the German republic, is based on his belief that warlike Mussolini is with him in spirit. Senator De Broeckere's statement worries Europe.

CONSECUTIVE DISAPPEARANCES BAFFLE SHERIFF

SANTA FE, Oct. 1 — The police of southwest New Mexico have been mystified by a series of evidently organized missing persons cases.

On September 28, Joaquin Villalobos, a native of the small town Cantonagro, was discovered to have left his room at the Antlope Hotel in Silver City, leaving all his possessions behind. The authorities suspect foul play, but have no suspects or clues.

This would not be so surprising were it not for two previous disappearances. On September 16th, Dr. William Shuford, a noted Professor of Psychology at the University of New Mexico at Albuquerque, was reported missing while traveling from Silver City to Las Cruces. On the 20th, a traveler from Deming, a Mr. David Lane, was found missing from his rented room in downtown Silver City. Both of these disappearances are also mentioned for though the police suspect that there is some connection between them.

PETTY ROBBERIES IN CITY GAIN BUT SMALL LOOT

One Hold-Up, First In Years, Is Reported to Police; Bandits Fail to Gain Any Loot

A number of petty robberies, including one of the first hold-ups to be perpetrated here in years, were reported to authorities over the week-end.

Details of the hold-up, which occurred at 5 o'clock Sunday morning on the other side of Barrelas bridge, were lacking. An unidentified victim was halted by two men in a Ford coupe, the sheriff's office was notified, but the hold-up pair secured no money for their pains. They drove away in the direction of Los Lomas.

The home of W. A. Shook, 360 South Arno street, was entered

Bonuses Will Be Provided for Those Especially Attentive to Underworld's Interests, It's Said

CHICAGO, Sept. 28 (UP)—The Chicago Herald Examiner said Sunday night that on next Wednesday night the underworld sources of "Scarface Al" Capone will pay approximately $100,000 to "certain police, politicians and public officials."

"There will be bonuses for those who have been especially attentive to gangdom's interests during the widespread attack on 'public enemies,'" said the article.

CO-OPERATION'S VALUE SEEN IN FEWER BLAZES

Chief of Operations of Forest Service, After Trip Through District, Pleased With Findings

Co-operation which residents in and near national forests in New Mexico give the U. S. forest service in fire prevention work has greatly impressed Roy Headley, chief of operations, from Washington, D. C., [illegible] Headley had just returned from a two weeks trip with Hugh G. Calkins, assistant district forester in this region, which took them to a number of national forests in New Mexico and Arizona.

"As a whole," said Headley, "this region has a splendid record in its fire protection work."

The official said that he has had a unique experience on his field trip this year. During the fire season practically all of his time has been spent in some of America's worst forest fire territory. Yet, Headley said, he saw only three fires and of these but two really might be classed as serious. In 10 years, he added, he has never before known this condition to prevail.

The official's work is concerned chiefly with maintenance of roads for protection from fires, and allied fields. At this time he is on his way to Washington, having travelled as far west as California. He has been gone from the capital since June 11. He will leave Albuquerque at the end of the week for Colorado.

CHAIN STORES KEPT DEPRESSION FROM BEING WORSE--PENNEY

CHICAGO, Sept. 21 (UP)—Retail merchants, and chain stores in particular, hold the key to full and complete national prosperity, J. C. Penney, founder and chairman of the board of the organization bearing his name, told delegates to the Chain Store association Tuesday.

"It is through the retail outlet," Penney said, "that our industries are lent in operation, and any interfering of the business pulse must of necessity start with the retailers."

Penney maintained that the steady volume demand of chain stores, with their healthy credit structures, has prevented a more disastrous business depression.

DEAD CATTLE PUZZLE CONTINUES

SANTA FE, Sept. 23—In the most recent chapter of the continuing mystery of the New Mexican cattle killings, rancher Charles Dexter lost 92 cattle between the 8th and 15th of September here on his ranch by the isolated town of Floraine. This has been the largest single loss ever attributed to the unseen "Cattle Butchers."

The cattle were found scattered across Mr. Dexter's ranch all with the tongues lolling torn out and frequently other signs of violence.

Mr. Dexter has been so affected by this grim occurrence that he has sold his ranch and moved to Europe. Before leaving, he stated, "I have a mighty good notion as to who's been slaughtering my herd. I am not a cowardly man, but I have no desire at all to mess with them. I am leaving this place for good." Mr. Dexter went on to say that his move had been planned for some months, but the recent catastrophe spurred him to move immediately.

For the last two years, occasional mysterious cattle mutilations have been occurring on the local ranches, but generally no more than one or two cows have been killed in a month. This newest occurrence seems to signal a possible upsurge in this strange chapter in the American southwest.

TOMBSTONE, ARIZONA, WILL BE AS IT WAS IN HELL ROARING DAYS AT CELEBRATION OCTOBER 16-19

Clink of Glasses, Whirr of Roulette Wheels and Raucus Music of the Dance Halls Will Be Heard

TOMBSTONE, Ariz., (UP)—This little city of less than 1,000 inhabitants, once the most famous mining camp of the southwest and from which millions of silver was taken, will rise again like a Phoenix from the ashes of its hectic past at the annual Helldorado celebration to be held October 16, 17, 18 and 19.

Tattered adobe and frame buildings, built in the late '70s and early '80s, will resound again to the clink of glasses from saloons, the whirr of roulette wheels and the old time music of the dance halls.

The task of restoring these ancient establishments, whose very names are intertwined in the early vivid history of Arizona, is now under way, and by opening day Tombstone will have shaken off the dust of a half century and will be again, in reproduction, the hell-roaring camp of 1881.

Steeped in historic interest, the name of Tombstone is known, perhaps, to everyone, as in and around it have been laid the scenes of innumerable historic stories, all contributing to the modern generation in their portrayal of sudden death, lynchings, holdups, claim jumpings and the thousand and one historic and colorful events of the real hell-southern mesa, brilliantly dressed Indians in their panoplies of beads and feather, all these will go to make a colorful whole, accurately reproductive of the real Helldorado days when Judge Lynch and Judge Colt held sway.

The Crystal palace, most famous of Arizona's early day bars and gambling halls, Bucket of Blood, the Oriental, the Can-Can restaurant, Papago store, Bird Cage theater, Shoffelin hall, and many others, will be reproduced just as in 1881 and will run full blast.

Exciting Events

Every hour of every day thrilling, blood-curdling events of Helldorado days history will be reenacted. Just as in the old days the Modoc stages that ran from Benson to Tombstone will dash with foam-flecked horses in to town; the roar of six guns and it is held up and cached of its treasure in the very streets of Helldorado in front of the O. K. Corral on Fremont street, in exact reproduction of the real event on October 26, 1881, Wyatt, Morgan, Virgil, Warren Earp and Doc Holliday will shoot it out with the Clanton and McLaury brothers which ended the famous Earl-Clanton feud and left three slain and two wounded on the ground.

BOATS CRASH IN BAD FOG

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., July 10—Three persons were drowned and 31 barred last night when the steamers John Mitchell and William H. Mack collided in the fog off Vermilion Point.

The crew of the Mack moved their lumber and assistance of mind in saving the 31 passengers from the Mitchell which sank to the bottom of Lake Superior almost immediately following the collision.

ALPHAS WIN BY SHUT OUT ROUTE

By a score of 12 to 0 the Alphas of Arnoldsburg crushed Spalding on Sunday by the slimiest score. K. Stidham was in the box for the Alphas and Stidham allowed but four hits. Pearson and Bromgette formed the battery for Spalding. The feature of the game was a home run hit by Frank Walden.

TRY FLIGHT AGAIN TODAY

In spite of the fact that unfavorable weather conditions prevailed on Arnoldsburg flight fields Sunday and yesterday afternoon a third attempt is to be made today. The flight is scheduled to occur late afternoon between 5 and 7 o'clock from the pasture grounds and should the attempt fail in an up time the Arnoldsburg management will be cleared and the machine will be shipped to Chicago.

Several hundred people flocked to the grounds on Sunday to see the airship in action and a rain storm that suddenly came on caught many in the crowd and gave them a thoroughly drenching. Again yesterday over 1,000 people were at the grounds and waited in vain for the airman to get into action. A stiff, squally wind was blowing from the southwest and Aviator Cowling refused to make the ascent. It was hoped that the wind would go down with the sun but there was no diminution in the force of the breeze and for fright was finally called off for the day. It was intended to ship the machine to Chicago last night whether such a flight was made but after a conference with the committee of the businessmen's auxiliary it was early last night it was decided by President Adam to remain here for another day and make one last effort to demonstrate to the people of Arnoldsburg that the machine really is capable of flying.

NATURISTS CAVORT IN BURYING GROUND

Sheriff's deputies were startled yesterday to receive a report that many dozen persons, completely devoid of human clothing, were disporting themselves among the tombstones in the cemetery previous about midnight. A corps of deputies, after investigating the matter thoroughly, are known to be carrying warrants for the arrest of the offenders, the evidence against whom is said to be overwhelming.

One can only assume that those who told of the awful revelers will refrain from another nighttime ride among the graveyards. The sheriff's office claims they will be ready and in court.

NO CONTESTS IN ELECTION

YESTERDAY'S SCHOOL ELECTION PROVED TO BE VERY QUIET AFFAIR

Not a single contest marred the quietude of yesterday's school election.

In sharp contrast to the interest evinced of one year ago when practically the entire voting strength of the city was polled but 123 ballots were cast at the election of yesterday.

Yesterday's election in a manner bore out the contention of many of the people of the city in the manner in which the public schools are now being conducted.

At yesterday's election L. Bathbun and Philip Bell were chosen as Trustees of the Arnoldsburg board of education for terms of three years.

Mrs. Bathbun received a total of 120 votes, Mr. Bell 112 and Herman Hellwig one vote. In addition to two ballots were blank.

FRANK J. VINSON AN ALLEGED EMBEZZLER

Vinson, a former director of the Columbia club, which entertained President Taft last Tuesday, and cashier of the Bronenberg Iron Works of this city, was arrested tonight on a warrant charging him with the embezzlement of $4,000 from the Iron Works company. It is said that the total shortage will reach $20,000.

Vinson was entertained by many social functions during the time the company was under the direction of Vinson and expert accountant was put on the books of the concern. The defalcations are said to have extended over a period of eight years.

It is expected that a large number of people will take advantage of the excursion to Fayette, which is to be given Thursday July 13, by the Ladies of the July section of the Ladies Aid society of the First Presbyterian church.

The Steamer Maywood, which has been chartered for the day, will leave the Shepherson dock at 10 o'clock in the morning, returning will leave Fayette at 4:30.

On July 23 a baseball game and other amusements will be provided for the visitors at Lathrop.

MORE MEN NEEDED AT THE NEW DAM

Arnoldsburg at present is enjoying a rather unprecedented scarcity of labor. Mr. Rich, one of the contractors on the new dam near Stidham's quarry on the Escanaba river, says that he could use 100 more teams and 500 more men easily.

He stated that unless the men are secured here at once he will be forced to have outside labor. The highest wages are paid for men working on the new dam and board is furnished at a reasonable rate.

BARN IS BURNED

Hyde Mich., July 10—During the electrical storm which prevailed over this vicinity Sunday afternoon, lightning struck the barn of H. A. Kenyon and it was burned to the ground together with a big hay and a cutter. The horses and some machinery were in the barn at the time, but were saved by a crew of men who were near when the fire was noticed.

PRETTY PARTY HELD YESTERDAY

Mrs. V. Longbine was the recipient of a delightful party yesterday afternoon given in honor of a dozen of her friends at her home on Meadowbrook avenue. Cards were the amusement of the afternoon after which refreshments daintily served were served.

Mrs. Longbine will leave today for an extended visit with friends and relatives in Canada and the affair yesterday was on the form of a farewell party.

THOUGHT BI-PLANE WENT UP SUNDAY

A large number of people were fooled Sunday night about 10:30 o'clock when they thought they saw the aeroplane. Some practical joker had sent up a toy balloon from the east end of Lankerton street and the sight of the toy going at a great rate of speed across the horizon was the cause of the rumor that the aeroplane was making a flight. It might be well to add that Manager Grabowski of the Steam Laundry said yesterday that a great many of the collars sent on Saturday were scrubbed in the near white inside one to believe that there were a large number of people taken to the town.

STIDHAM IS SIGNED UP

NEW TWIRLER ACCEPTS PERMANENT BERTH ON LOCAL BALL TEAM

Members of the board of directors of the Arnoldsburg baseball club last night formally signed up Pitcher Stidham who comes here for a trial and held. Dispensing to one kit in Schaefer's game. Members of the team are uncertain who witnessed Saturday's game, pronounce Stidham one the best Michigan to be one of the classiest twirlers in the league and his performance against Newaygo in one of the games here till he watched with interest.

Because of the leaving of the grand stand and a portion of the bleachers at the park and the inevitable being necessitated of providing a new stand the directors will be forced to ask for additional funds from the fans of the city. It was decided last night by the directors to send out five week and with facts thereof. Inquiries it is believed that the club can be pulled out of the hole into which it has been shoved.

It was decided last night by the directors to attempt to arrange a game with the Bloomsmore team for some date next week.

As Menominee has trimmed the locals for two straight games and the locals are thirsting for the blood of their former team, mate Monte Olmstead it is believed that the game would prove a great week day drawing card.

It is probable that definite arrangements for the game will be made within a few days.

DITTY IS COMPOSED

GRAND STAND ON ITS WAY

The work of moving the old grand stand from the driving park to the ball grounds is well under way and the indications are that the work will be completed Saturday. The first section of the stand will be removed at the new site today and as the road has now been prepared no one day will be required to move the remaining sections. It is expected that every part of the park will be grounded by Saturday's game cannot be secured.

MICHIGAN'S FRUIT BETTER THAN WEST

PAINTS GLOWING PICTURE OF CHANCES IN HOME STATE.

Development of Millions of Acres in Eastern and Western Part of Lower Peninsula Will Make Farmers Rich.

Charles T. Manning, Manistee, who has been identified with the scientific agricultural and horticultural [illegible] for nearly a quarter of a century, the best part of which period he has spent in the great fruit sections of the western states, paints a glowing picture of the possibilities of Michigan's unoccupied lands if proper scientific methods are only applied. Mr. Manning says:

Michigan has contributed an altogether too large a quota of the population of the western fruit-growing states.

A personal investigation of conditions in the west has convinced me that nowhere in the whole United States are similar opportunities afforded to the man who desires to engage in any branch of agriculture as Michigan.

Nearly all the fruits are successfully grown in every county of Michigan. Apples are universally successful.

In Michigan there is to be around over 3,000,000 acres of unimproved land, suitable for high-class farming or orcharding.

Within a radius of 600 miles are found the greatest markets in the United States, Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul, Detroit, Grand Rapids, Pittsburg, etc.

The development of these unimproved lands in Michigan means an added population of not less than one and one-half millions of population.

People with energy, ability and stick-to-it-iveness and some capital are the requisites desired.

Use Prisoners in Roads.

As a result of the recent investigation by the sheriff, county road commissioner and committee of the board of supervisors, of the convict labor work on the stone roads at Kalamazoo, the sheriff of Saginaw county will start a crew of minor crime men at Brady township, Saginaw county.

If the experiment proves satisfactory to the officers a favorable report for the general adoption of the system will be made to the supervisors, at their regular session in September.

Traffic on Lake Remains Stagnant.

Not in years, vessel owners say, has there been such stagnation in freight traffic on the great lakes as during the present season. Lake carriers estimate

ON TERRIBLE NEIGHBORS.

Dear Sir:—There are limits, I tell you, to what a man can endure. I had my property here long ago upon by villians, hooligans and no-'do-well's and these surrounds upon me, their behavior confined by the citizenry of Winnemuck. It is an affront, sir, an affront, I tell you, to a decent man, who values nothing more than an orderly-like with his neighbors with a congenial neighborliness and without strife, antagonism or ill will.

Then of you who may read this curse fall will the indignation I've suffered at the hands of these marauding schools. Friday last, I am told, was to have been kept up much of the night by the incessant howls of Big Betty my shoveling and upon waking and surveying my property it was clear that one or more persons sporting heavy work boots had trod through my strawberry patch. Malicionsness, sir, that's what I call it. And this, compounded with the previous week when vandals broke into my yard and removed the flag from my stock and, passing all of the waters thereon to run onto the ground, to the limit. For if course it did upon me to replenish the drained tank. Vandalism and thieving may have precipitated the fall of the glorious Roman Empire, but I assure you, sir, that these petty vandals shall not bring me down like Rome.

If these harassments are not, the entire township will be the scene by it. The minor things that have been happening up to now would grow worse, and I can promise you that my views for justice will not be made in vain. I may leave, but never forever.

—Curtly yours, Bill W.

ARKHAM

Associated Press. ARKHAM, MASS.,

Lights Seen In Cemetery

Two separately reported seeing lights in the Old Wooded Graveyard on Boundary St. shortly after ten o'clock last night. In a report to the police, one of the witnesses, Cletus Pastwood, of Newburyport, said he was not surprised by the lights. "Why should a ghost in an Arkham cemetery surprise anyone at this point?" joked Mr. Pastwood. "Those lights were moving around out there, plain as could be. A ghost seems as good an explanation as any other."

Hiram Jones, the cemetery's groundskeeper, was likewise unsurprised by the witness' report from last night. Mr. Jones said he himself had seen similar nocturnal lights the past week. "I saw them out there the night of the first," he said, "and then I saw them for a second time about ten after midnight on the third."

Mr. Jones seemed willing to accept Mr. Pastwood's assessment of the lights emanating from "ghosts."

"I can't rightly say what made them glowing lights", Jones admitted. "I took a good look in the area in the daylight and couldn't see any footprints or anything like that. You spend enough time in a graveyard by night and you're apt to see something peculiar now and again."

One sees this kind of superstitious attitude in Arkham with a disturbing frequency. Many residents of the town will immediately leap to connections with the city's so-called "witch haunted" past and embrace any phenomenon that's out of the ordinary as being supernatural or otherworldly. One hopes that more of our citizenry will begin to consider matters such as this from a rational perspective. In all likelihood the "ghostly" glowing lights were nothing more than [illegible] mischievous youths playing about with electric torches. A little more time spent reading scientific journals rather than pulp magazine stories would do this town a world of good.

Plans For Reservoir Clear Latest Hurdle

BOSTON, June 4—The Metropolitan District Water Supply Commission reports that it has received petitions from the selectmen of the towns of Bolton and Cogswell formally requesting discontinuation of the so-called river road from the Arkham-Lowell highway south of the construction site of the Mallapan dam. This, together with the anticipated abandonment of the Athol branch of the Boston and Albany railroad, will clear the way for construction of the main dam and the new reservoir.

The relocation of a number of graveyards is ongoing, and there are still many hurdles to be cleared before the hydrological engineers get to work. Surveyors are now going door to door in remote villages such as Petersham and Dunwich to make sure residents know the status of the project.

THREE BOYS NOW ON TRIAL FOR COMEAU MURDER

Shooting of Patrolman, Robbery and Breaking and Entering Charged to Trio

Indicted on Charges of Cold Blooded Killing on Night of March 24

BOSTON, June 4. (AP)—Three boys, ranging in age from 17 to 19 years, went on trial today on indictments charging first degree murder in connection with the shooting of Patrolman Frank J. Comeau last March. The boys, Albert Dodson and John B. Sambarsky, each 17 and Stanley B. Tosthaker, 19, were alleged members of burglary and hold-up gang. Additional indictments have been brought against them including charges of robbery and breaking and entering.

Selection of a jury from the panel of [illegible] veniremen were begun today before Judge [illegible] in superior court.

All three have entered pleas of not guilty, but the police claim to have obtained admissions from them implicating themselves in the killing of Patrolman Comeau on the night of March 24. The patrolman had halted an automobile when he was shot by one of the occupants.

Tosthaker, the first of the youths arrested, was captured in April [illegible] in Lynn, after a burglary in that city. His admissions led to the search for the others.

Dodson and Sambarsky were captured in an East Boston lodging house, close to a police station, on April 29. Both carried revolvers.

Patrolman Comeau was shot to death in front of the Fields Corner police station garage, according to the evidence of witnesses, after he had been asked by three young men to help them start their automobile. It was believed that Comeau was not at first recognized as a policeman, but when he started to question the youths about the automobile, which had been stolen and contained stolen goods, a scuffle ensued and he was shot. The three fled, leaving the automobile and the pistol with which the shooting was done. The policeman's pistol was taken.

Speeding up his forces, the dry chief has brought about the arrest of nearly 70,000 persons during the last 11 months for illegal possession, sale and transportation of liquor.

Hiram Jones, caretaker of the Old Wooded Graveyard, claims to have seen "the biggest lizard of all time" running across the top of Aylesbury hill. He asserted to the Arkham Police that the extraordinary sighting took place during the morning hours of June 5th. This statement needs no commentary!

MOTORIST DIVES INTO RIVER IN CAR BUT SWIMS ASHORE

Struck Pole Then Swerved Through Fence—Driver Escapes Unhurt

TILTON, N. H., June 6 (AP)—An automobile driven by E. W. Chase of Laconia, late last night swerved from the Daniel Webster highway when the steering gear locked, struck a telegraph pole, plunged through a fence and rolled down an embankment into the Winnipesaukee river.

Chase, with great difficulty, opened one of the doors and swam to shore, a distance of about 20 feet.

The accident occurred directly opposite the G. H. Tilton & Sons hosiery mills about 11 o'clock last night while Mr. Chase was on his way from Tilton to his summer cottage at Winnisquam, which is near Laconia. He was unable to tell how the accident happened, but said he was unable to turn the wheel when his car left the road. The machine was a touring car with a winter top. One of the windows was open and when the car sank into the river, water poured through this, handicapping Mr. Chase in his attempts to escape. The machine was submerged by water today, but the top was visible early this morning before mills opened.

Siberian Natives Become Cannibals Starve and Suicide

NOME, Alaska, June 6 (AP)—Bringing a tale of cannibalism and starvation among the natives of Indian Point, Siberia, across the Bering Strait from Alaska, Captain Ira Rank of the motorship Trader has just returned from a trading cruise to islands along the Siberian coast.

Three hundred natives died of starvation last winter, Captain Rank said. Those who survived had lived on a diet of their comrades, relatives and dogs. Many of the natives killed their wives and children with knives and then ended their own lives, rather than resort to cannibalism.

These natives, Captain Rank said,

TEMPERATURE NOT UNUSUAL FOR JUNE

Lower Records Have Been Set Three Times in Five Years

While the chilly mornings yesterday and today were hardly suggestive of June, an examination of city hall weather records this morning showed that the temperature of 42 early yesterday morning which was duplicated today is by no means unusual. Lower marks have been set during the month of June on at least three occasions in the past five years while the same thermometer has touched the low 40s a number of times over an eight year period.

Two years ago today, on June 7, 1924, the city hall thermometer registered 42, one degree colder than yesterday and this morning, while in 1921, the city hall mercury fell to 40 degrees on the 6th of June and to 42 degrees on the 16th. On June 30th 1919, the last day of the month, a temperature reading of 41 degrees was recorded at city hall, while on June 17th, 1918, this morning's mark of 42 was equalled. Last year at this time however, a hot wave had descended on this section with temperatures in the 90s for several successive days.

Lizard Search Reveals Nothing

A search party looking into claims of a giant lizard seen on Aylesbury hill announced today that a thorough investigation revealed no signs of any such creature.

Following up on a report from June 4th in which Hiram Jones, the caretaker at the Old Wooded graveyard, claimed to have seen "the biggest lizard of all time" on Aylesbury hill, a posse went out looking to verify the man's claims. The search party included representatives from the Arkham police and fire departments, the Essex County office of the American Humane Association, the Arkham S.P.C.A., the Miskatonic University Biology Department and the Boston Herpetology Club.

Despite spending nearly four hours searching the area, the group turned up nothing which could substantiate the groundskeeper's claim.

"We don't tend to see any large species of lizards in this part of the country," said Fritz Kemper of the herpetology club. "We'd have been very surprised to see any species of large lizard hereabouts."

Ultimately the group abandoned its search with the charitable notion that whatever Mr. Jones saw was probably some kind of prank carried out by students from the university.

Cemetery Caretaker Suffers Breakdown

Hiram Jones, caretaker for Old Wooded graveyard, suffered a full nervous breakdown yesterday and was remanded into medical custody.

Arkham police quickly assessed something was wrong with Mr. Jones when he entered Arkham's Fifth Precinct Station shortly after 5 o'clock p. m. yesterday while waving a shotgun and screaming about "monsters ready to invade Arkham." Officers on duty swiftly disarmed Mr. Jones and confined him for transportation to a medical facility. Fortunately, no bystanders were injured during this queer event.

"We don't know the cause of Mr. Jones' breakdown," said patrolman Newton Pinkman, who was present at the station for the event, "but obviously he wasn't in his right mind."

Jones had visited the Arkham Police earlier in the week, claiming to have sighted a "giant lizard" on Aylesbury hill. After a search revealed no signs of any such creature, authorities considered the possibility that Mr. Jones' imagination had gotten the better of him.

The admitting physician at St. Mary's Hospital on Pickman St said it's entirely possible that Mr. Jones' tall tales from earlier in the week may have been a prelude to his current condition. Mr. Jones has been transferred to the care of an alienist in Boston who specializes in nervous disorders.

Diver Finds Bodies Of Two Victims of Washington Irving

JERSEY CITY, N. J., June 11 (AP)—Diver Harry Rinerman last night found the body of Mrs. Lynn Hoag and that of her three-year-old daughter in the forward cabin of the steamer Washington Irving which sank in the Hudson river on June 1. The location of the bodies made it impossible to bring them to the surface but today Rinerman and other divers will try again.

It is believed the women went to the cabin in search of two other children who were rescued.

BLACK KNOB IN THE NEWS

Recent Disappearances Receive National Attention in the Tabloid Press.

It seems the tabloid papers in the big city have taken notice of the recent spate of missing pets and farm animals here in our town and tried to sensationalize them for circulation. The New York Pillar/Riposte, Evening Graphic, and other less reputable sheets have pointed out our worries as "features" for the entertainment of their jaded readers.

We take the unexplained disappearances of our animals, not to mention gardener Scott Spade, and even Sam Munson, more seriously.

THE AMERICAN LEGION

The regular meeting of the Black Knob-Newcomb Post of the American Legion was held Tuesday evening in the high school.

We are pleased to announce the addition of four new members for the past month. We hope to have more this month. Let's Go.

The temporary quarters have been papered and the carpenter work will be finished for the next meeting. It was voted to hold meetings hereafter on Monday evenings every two weeks. The first meeting under this plan will be held March 14th. Mark a few meetings on your calendar and let's see you at the next meeting in the new quarters.

The local talent show under the auspices of the Black Knob-Newcomb Post will take place in April. The entertainment postponed from March will be given in the early part of May.

An invitation was received the from the G. A. R. for all members to be present at a dinner at the I. O. O. F. hall March 17th. We will not have many more opportunities to meet with the G. A. R. of this locality and it is urged that all members of the Black Knob-Newcomb Post, who possibly can, be present on that date. Lunch will be served promptly at noon.

The next dance will be held on March 17th and the committee of which F. J. Schlender is chairman was instructed to look for a good crowd. Bills and tickets are now ready.

Something to Think About
By F. A. WALKER

DEVIL WORSHIP

AN AMERICAN explorer has just returned to civilization after a visit to the interior of Ecuador and the homeland of the Jibaro Indians.

This tribe of head-hunting savages have lived in the same territory since long before Columbus discovered the Americas and have kept wholly free from the influence of civilization.

The most striking evidence of their failure to advance in the centuries which have passed over them is the report of the explorer that the Jibaros do not believe in a God, but that they do worship devils.

It is practically the universal history of the development of all people from the savage state to that of civilization, that the belief in devils precedes that of a belief in God.

Before they conceive or deify a ruler in the realm of good they establish a kingdom of evil and nominate a being supreme in the management of one or all forms of danger and misfortune.

Herbert Spencer in his analysis of human worship bases religion on the Unknown, declaring that the savage first worships those powers which he does not understand.

It is the savage's inability, because of his savagery, to trace cause from effect that leads him to assign to totally unrelated things the cause for what he observes.

And since it is those things which harm or threaten him with harm which most concern him he establishes first his devil causes rather than his God causes.

He hears in the thunder the voice of a devil living in the sky, who punishes with the swift lightning and with fire.

He sees a devil in the wild beast that kills his cattle. There is a demon power that helps his enemies of another tribe.

The white man's gun is an invention of some evil spirit and the drought which spoils his crop or the deluge which overthrows his lands are evidences to him of the activities of some powerful and unfriendly spirit which he must in some way appease.

In some of the earliest written history of this country the narrative left by Captain John Smith of Virginia, there is much space devoted to the devil worship of the Indians of that territory and the sacrifice of children to quiet the wrath of the evil ones.

All through tradition and history from Set, the demon of death and evil in the mythology early Egypt down

CIVIC ASSOCIATION NEWS

Regular Meeting Held After Village Caucus Last Thursday Evening. Good Attendance.

The regular semi-monthly meeting of the Black Knob Civic Association was held last Thursday evening at the Village Hall immediately following the Village Caucus. E. B. Grimm presided.

The hospital project was very enthusiastically discussed. A committee from both the Black Knob Civic Ass'n and the Planter's Club is scheduled to meet at Mr. Kellogg's office March 9 to confer on plans concerning the launching of the campaign to finance the project. The prospects are very bright for its building this year.

The annual banquet is set for Saturday, March 19, at the Baldwin House. Several prominent speakers will be present. Further announcement will be made in the next Trumpet.

BOWLING NEWS

The local team which is entered in the A. B. C. Tournament at Buffalo this month, has not as yet been notified as to the exact date they are scheduled to roll.

Talk of the Town

After leasing the old Felton Estate north of town, Mr. Smythe was swift to make a number of friends in the local business community and joined the local chapter of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks.

He earned the gratitude of the Black Knob Historical Society with a donation to their fund to replace the church bell at St. Ebenezer's Episcopal Church.

This was capped off by his appearance at the Beachy Manor last night for Mrs. Beachy's Charity Supper to benefit the Methodist Women's Educational Club. Said Maude Beachy, "It's so wonderful to see this young man embrace our community and support our charities. I think he's likely to go on to become one of our most distinguished citizens."

Mr. Smythe was quite distinguished indeed, wearing a tuxedo to the event with Miss Margaret Brown on his arm. The two danced the night away along with many other party-goers from our Black Knob and surrounding communities, all in the support of an excellent cause.

B.K.H.S. ENTERTAINMENT

Glee Club Cantata And Folk Dance Exhibition Well Attended.

The Black Knob High School Glee Club Cantata and Folk Dance Exhibition given last night at the B. K. H. S. Auditorium was largely attended and much enjoyed by all. The scenic effects and costumes were the prettiest of any entertainment held in Black Knob for some time. Much credit is due Mrs. L. K. Baldwin, Miss Karen Camp and Mrs. M. Kelly.

Part one of the program was a Cantata, "Fays of the Floating Islands," by the Girls Glee Club, consisting of members of the family and high school girls.

Part two of the program consisted of a series of Folk dances, the first of which was the "Dance of the Wild Roses," by five tiny primary girls. A dainty dance, "There Was a Little Girl," by Eleanor Lebley was very good. A Russian Folk Dance was gracefully given by B. K. H. S. girls. The French Doll Dance by Grace Sweetland pleased everyone as was shown by the continued applause. The entertainment was continued by a May Pole Dance by members of the fifth grade.

The management is well pleased with the results of the entertainment, a large and appreciative crowd. It was feared at first that the innovation of such an entertainment would not be well received, fears that were soon put to rout. The general expression of the public is that everyone was well pleased and would like to see more such entertainments.

Brown Institutionalized Following Breakdown

Margaret Brown of 18 Bagman st., was found outside in her garden this morning in an incoherent state.

Police who arrived at the scene found Miss Brown to be inconsolable and profoundly confused. Sergeant Gaspar of the county sheriff's office said it appeared she'd spent the entire night out of doors and described her as "chilled to the bone". Miss Brown was admitted to the Black Knob Sanatorium where the doctors are treating her for an unspecified disorder of the nerves.

Neighbor Dorothea Mayfield described Miss Brown's behavior as uncharacteristic. "I've known Margaret for years and have never seen anything like this. She's the strong and sensible type."

Miss Brown's beau, newcomer Adam Smythe, was clearly overwhelmed with grief as he spoke with physicians at the sanatorium this afternoon. The two had been courting for nearly three months and rumors of an impending engagement have been swirling.

NEW TIME UNFAVORED

Protest Received by Village Board and Many Local Business Men.

At the regular meeting of the Evans Grange No. 1332 P. of H., Saturday evening, the question of Black Knob's "daylight saving" ordinance was brought up for discussion. The general opinion of the Grange seemed to be against the present village law. A motion was made and carried, instructing the secretary to send the Village Board, and all local dealers operating on new time, the following formal protest:

"At the regular meeting of Evans Grange No. 1332 P. of H. held St. Eve May 14, it was regularly voted that the Sec'y notify the head of every store which keeps "daylight saving" that Evans Grange consisting of 250 members protests against it and if these stores do not keep "Standard Time," so that trading may be done in evening these members will trade where stores are run on "Standard Time."

A number of the leading business men told the Trumpet representative they cared to make no statement in regard to the above letter. However the consensus of opinion seems to be that since the Village Board voted "daylight saving" the business places would continue as heretofore. The majority of the merchants feel that by keeping open two nights a week, i. e., Wednesdays and Saturdays, they are doing their part to enable the farmers to do their trading in the daytime. To keep open every evening would be unprofitable and unfair to the store keeper.

The members of the Grange are often inconvenienced by arriving in Black Knob and finding the stores closed. The majority feel that the local store keepers should remain open evening long enough to enable them to do their trading.

What action will be taken by the Village Board and merchants in what

Canadian Girl Adopts Lion Cub After Killing Mother

By JOHN MacCORMAC.
(By Cable to The Province.)

LONDON, July 9.—A tiny lion cub is a first-class passenger bound for Canada from Southampton with a dog ticket in the Empress of Scotland. He was born in Kenya, was made an orphan by two shots from a big game woman hunter's gun before he was nine days old, has travelled 7000 miles by motor car, Nile boat, train, airplane and steamer, and has seen the tomb of the Pharaoh Tutankhamen, as well as the Rue de la Paix and Piccadilly Circus. The woman who shot his mother is Miss A. Hughes, daughter of the late Sir Sam Hughes. She adopted him by way of reparation.

"It was my first experience of big game hunting," she told the Daily Express. "I shot both father and mother, and then we found a litter of three cubs. The others of the party took one each and I kept Lono Kenya Simba. He motored 800 miles through Uganda with me before his eyes were opened. Even then he had two weeks in a Nile boat, and in Luxor he managed to fall out of a second-storey window without hurting himself. He went from Paris to London with me by airplane. He lives in a little basket like a cat and still has to be fed from a bottle with milk, his ration being a pint and a half a day. I hope to keep him till he is seven or eight months old."

Floating University Will Traverse the Seven Seas

NEW YORK, July 9.—A floating university, which will combine a year's college study with a trip round the world, will sail from New York next September with 450 college youths selected from all parts of the country, it is said by New York University. An 18,000 ton steamship will be campus, dormitories, class rooms and laboratories for the unique student body for 240 days, during which five continents and fifty foreign ports will be visited.

Dean James E. Lough of New York University's extra mural division will be in charge.

The itinerary includes Cuba, Panama, Hawaii, Japan, Korea, China, the Philippines, Dutch Indies, Malay Peninsula, Burma, India, Ceylon, Arabia, Palestine, Egypt, North Africa and Europe.

Tolerance in Study Of Modern Art Urged
By Mrs. Eric Brown

A plea for tolerance on the part of the public when studying the works of modern painters was voiced by Mrs. Eric Brown in a lecture in the Art School on Thursday afternoon. The speaker deprecated the attitude of some who condemn a picture after a few moments study without trying to understand the motive of the artist.

Mrs. Brown prefaced her lecture with a brief description of the National Gallery at Ottawa, and a short account of its history. Lantern slides of some of the pictures in the gallery were shown, including early Italian, Flemish and Renaissance paintings, early English and modern Canadian works.

Mrs. Brown reminded her audience that art was not to be measured by photographic standards, and that it was not progress to follow blindly the examples left by the old masters. It is necessary to open new fields constantly, she declared.

Currie Speaks at Courcelette Anniversary

MONTREAL, July 9.—Just as unity was necessary during the war, so it was needed above everything else in times of peace, declared Sir Arthur Currie, former commander of the Canadian Corps in France, at a dinner of the Royal 22nd Regiment, which celebrated the eleventh anniversary of the battle of Courcelette and the twelfth anniversary of the landing in France of the Second Canadian Division.

SEEK FOSSIL BONES IN SASKATCHEWAN

Toronto Professor Continues Digging Operations for Dinosaur Remains.

TORONTO, July 9.—Professor Alex MacLean, University of Toronto, is having to superintend further excavations in Northern Saskatchewan, where last year Professor W. A. Sparks, associated with the Royal Ontario Museum, found the bones of dinosaurs. A little later several other men will be sent by the university, which is directing the research work, to assist Professor MacLean, who will be located at Dundurn.

It is expected that valuable specimens, to be added to the exhibits of the Royal Museum, will be discovered this spring, Professor Sparks stated. His position as president of the Geological Society of the British Association, he said, would necessitate a visit to Europe, and this would interfere with his scientific research in the western province this year.

STRANGE FOOT EXAMINED.

POINT GREY, B.C.—A spokesman for the University of Vancouver announced today that a specimen brought here from the Cariboo Mountains may indicate that an unknown species of primate may inhabit the unexplored wilderness of northern British Columbia.

Dr. Harvey Lantilla, head of the zoology department, said the specimen, an ape-like foot severed a few inches above the ankle, was purchased by him from a trapper who claims to have found the frozen appendage near the foothills of the mountains. Although the specimen is not ready for public viewing, Dr. Lantilla describes the foot as human-sized, but with distinct structural differences that eliminate the possibility that it is of human origin. The foot is partially covered with coarse, orange hair.

According to Lantilla, extensive examination and dissection of the specimen is due to commence soon. It will most likely be shown to belong to an orangutan or chimpanzee, possibly escaped from a traveling circus or carnival and now living in the wilds of the mountains.

No plans have as yet been made for the final disposition of the specimen.

Motion Picture Company Leaves for South

Delighted with their experiences in British Columbia and well pleased with the results of the last three days' work at Seymour Creek, where some exceptionally good pictures were taken, the Frank Lloyd Picture Production Company, which has been taking scenes in the district for the film, "The Winds of Chance," left on Sunday night for Wallowa Lake, near Pendleton, Oregon. They will remain there three weeks.

MEN AND THINGS

On Saturday night last, a very considerable part of the Town of Kaslo was destroyed by fire. The fire appears to have originated in the Bar Ton Restaurant about 2 a. m., and burnt fiercely for about an hour and a half. Every building on the north side of Front street is destroyed, and it was only by the most strenuous exertions and the employment of dynamite that part of the south side was saved. The fire was stayed at the Leland Hotel and from there to the corner of Third street, little damage is done. Although the Customs House was burnt, the books and papers were saved. By the explosion of the dynamite in Byers' hardware store much damage to windows in other parts of the town was done and one or two people were hurt, but not severely. It is said that three attempts have been made within the last few weeks to burn down the town. The town was absolutely without any appliances for protection from fire, and the insurance offices had lately been cancelling many of their risks.

Government aid has been promised towards the building of the bridge across the Fraser at New Westminster. This is good news. The present connection with the Great Northern Railway across the river is effected by a dirty, uncomfortable ferry boat, which sometimes meets the train and sometimes does not. It is a most delightful run from a scenic point of view, that to Seattle along the coast, but the present arrangements at New Westminster militate very much against the comfort of the trip and are harmful to the interests of the place.

The inhabitants of Alberni have declared their intention of taking the law into their own hands, and expelling all the Chinese from their district by force. They say that petitions to the powers that be are of no use, and therefore have determined to adopt the only other course that remains to them of ridding themselves of their obnoxious neighbours. Now, we sympathise entirely in the main, with the spirit that imbues our "hard fisted" comrades who are prepared to undergo hardship in developing what we hope will turn out a profitable gold field, but we must caution them to keep within the four corners of the law. After all, the law is the law, and thank goodness, under our British flag the law is always fairly administered. Any attempt to go outside the law, with however commendable an object, will only tend to delay the alteration of that law in the desired direction.

Vancouver possesses many handsome buildings, and not the least conspicuous among these is the new club, which occupies a site in a thousand. As many are aware, considerable difficulty has been experienced financially, and the entrance fee has been lowered a number of times. It is now twenty-five dollars. We understand that the fine and commodious building will be opened shortly and we hope the management will "live up to" their building and position.

A meeting of the Natural History Society of British Columbia, was held in Victoria on Monday last, to listen to a paper by Mr. Sutton, on the mineralogy of the Province.

In Yale, in the immediate vicinity of No. 4 tunnel, situated some twenty miles above the village, are bluffs of rock which have hitherto been insurmountable, but on Monday morning last were successfully scaled by Mr. Onderdonk's employees on the regular train from Lytton. Assisted by Mr. Costerton, the British Columbia Express Company's messenger, a number of gentlemen from Lytton and points east of that place, after considerable trouble and perilous climbing captured a creature who may truly be called half-man and half-beast. "Jacko," as the creature has been called by its captors, is something of the gorilla type standing about 4 feet 7 inches in height and weighing 127 pounds. He has long course orange hair and resembles a human being with one exception, namely his entire body, excepting his hands (or paws) and feet are covered with glossy hair about one inch long. His forearm is much longer than a man's forearm and possesses extraordinary strength, as he will take hold of a stick and break it by wrenching or twisting it, which no man living could break in the same way. Since his capture he is very reticent, only occasionally uttering a noise which is half bark and half growl. He is however, becoming daily more attached to his keeper, Mr. George Telbury, of this place, who proposes shortly starting for London, England, to exhibit him. His favorite food so far is berries and he drinks fresh milk with relish.

We had hoped to have submitted to our readers this week a chemical analysis of the water supplied by our city fathers whereof a sample was taken (before use) from the editorial bath, but unfortunately we must postpone the interesting disclosures we have reason to believe there are in store for them until our next issue, as much to our regret the report (possibly owing to the fact that there is so much to put into it) is not yet ready. We trust however that they will turn the unavoidable delay to good account by getting themselves into such order as will enable them to resist a fair average shock to their nervous temperament.

Talking of shocks reminds us of a blow we ourselves unexpectedly received the other day while

A LESSON IN ECONOMICS.

A STANDARD of value that will not vary is the thing sought by many writers on currency questions. It is an impossibility. The value of every commodity must vary from day to day. One day a dollar that is worth 23 3-5 grains of gold, will purchase two bushels of wheat, next but one bushel. Evidently both the value of the dollar and the bushel have changed. The value of any article is its power of purchase, necessarily to purchase some other article. Value can never be fixed, nor can it ever be subject, in a strict sense, to a standard. A valuable metal or other substance used as a medium of exchange must continually fluctuate. Such fluctuations, unless violent, cause no serious injury to anyone in the ordinary course of business. If the dollar becomes very valuable it will purchase more of the farmer's wheat, but will secure to the farmer proportionately more clothing and groceries. But in case of debts, fluctuations may easily cause serious hardships. A debt must be an obligation to deliver some article of value at a future date. If that article increases in value during the interval the debt increases proportionately. Bimetallism, as advocated, cannot counteract this, as it would be simply monometallism in the chaper or over-valued metal. It has been proposed to make debts payable in a standard representing the ruling prices of several leading articles of commerce.—Toronto Globe.

ROUGH ON GOVERNOR MACKINTOSH.

THIS is by far the largest mining enterprise which has been floated in connection with British Columbia, and naturally those who have turned their attention to these gold fields are keenly interested in the progress of this large company. At the meeting of this company a short time ago the chairman seemed to congratulate the shareholders on not having purchased the Alaska Commercial Company, stating that "we fear that the matter of steamers, transport, and trading will be overdone. We have, however," he continued, "determined to open several important trading posts of our own, and to provide such steamer service as will suit our own service."

In the interview with Mr. Mackintosh which we published last week he states that "they had decided not to take up this option, as it was not thought advisable to associate the trading and transport business with mining enterprises." We should like to know when the directors arrived at such a conclusion, because there is no doubt whatever that the principal feature in the prospectus of the British America Corporation was the intended purchase of this great northern trading company's business, and the second feature was the Le Roi mine.

We are convinced that, had these two valuable and well known properties been omitted from the prospectus, the flotation would not have been completely successful; and the London and Globe would not have taken 500,000 shares for promotion expenses.

Since the meeting of the corporation on January 15th, certain properties have been bought by Mr. Mackintosh, the details of which have appeared in these columns; but as far as we can ascertain, no mining engineer of standing has examined these properties prior to the sale. No doubt Mr. Mackintosh has instructed some local surveyor to go down and draw up a report; but more than this is expected by the shareholders, and they have a right to expect to be fully informed in the clearest possible manner concerning the properties on which their money is proposed to be spent.

Concerning the insertion of the Le Roi in the well known "schedule," until some satisfactory explanation is vouchsafed many will hold the opinion that the flotation was a piece of sharp practice. The list of properties which the managing director says the company have bought contains some good names; but they are practically all prospects, and a large outlay will be required to prove their value.

Are we to understand that Mr. Mackintosh is alone responsible for the purchase of these properties? Of his many excellent social qualities we are well aware, but there is no mining man in Canada but would laugh at the idea of "Charlie Mackintosh" having any idea of the value of an ore body.

We learn that the manager has left England for Rossland. It would have been far better had some engineer of experience accompanied him to assist the managing director with expert advice; and with the large amount of capital at their disposal they should possess in a year or two some profitable mines if the moneys of the company are judiciously handled. At the present time, however, investors will be well advised to take their profit—about 3s.—and await further developments.—B. C. Review.

REMAINS OF FROZEN VICTIM IDENTIFIED.

A FROZEN body, discovered twenty miles north of Vancouver, has been tentatively identified to-day. The body, found last week by two local Indians, appears to be that of Father Jacque DeCasque, a Jesuit priest who spent most of his life converting the Indians of British Columbia to Christianity during the late 17th and early 18th centuries. Father DeCasque disappeared during the winter of 1814 while living among a primitive band of Indians in the Cariboo Mountains and was never heard of again.

The discovery of the body, found frozen solid and thrust headfirst up to the waist into a sand bank, throws little light upon the priest's fate. The Indians, who travel this hunting path often, claim that the body was not there the month before but was dropped from the sky by a "spirit." No marks of violence were found on the body but portions of the anatomy were injured by severe frostbite before the man died.

It is difficult to understand how the body was so completely frozen and well-preserved. The examining physician stated that if it were not for the positive identification made, he would guess that the man died not more than a few days before his body was discovered. Why, over a period of nearly 85 years, the body did not naturally decompose remains a mystery.

The earthly remains of Father DeCasque will be interred in the churchyard at Our Mother of Grace Church here in Vancouver.

HEREDITY AND MARRIAGE.

TO THE EDITOR:—The right way to stop sinning is to stop propagating sinners. The wrong way is to propagate the sinners and then trust to regenerating them afterwards. Bad seed is sown on fertile ground and the bad crop is reaped. Indeed no attention is given to the quality of either seed or soil and humanity is being continually crushed by avalanches of misery.

Hence the cry of "rescue the perishing," "redemption," "succour the weak" and others like in kind are continually heard in the land. It is the voice of an army of retrievers. This army is composed of many divisions and is vast in numbers. Natural and "supernatural" powers are invoked. A vast amount of zeal and energy is manifested in the hopeless struggle. The crop of weaklings is ever growing. The stream of human life is forever being poisoned at its source and while the misdirected efforts result in some

LOCAL CAMPERS ATTACKED: DEAD AND MISSING

KAMLOOPS, B.C., Sept. 16 — An official announcement from R.C.M.P. district headquarters here has confirmed the disappearance and possible deaths of three people on a camping trip south of the Cariboo Mountains.

Thomas Berringer, his wife, Dora, and a local guide, Douglas Makelheney, are all believed to have been killed when their campsite was suddenly attacked by renegade Indians. The sole survivor of the attack, William Paragent, was severely wounded but escaped into a nearby pine forest and eluded his pursuers. Paragent showed up in the small town of Dogfork only three days after the campers had left, suffering from loss of blood and severe exposure. Delirious, he was rushed, by rail, to the hospital in Kamloops where, after regaining consciousness, he related the story of the savage attack to the R.C.M.P.

Captain Swainson, head of the local district office, has announced plans for a search of the area but holds little hope for the missing members of the party.

The Athapaskan Indian band believed responsible for the attack is a small group who, shunning contact with all white men and other Indians, have pursued a primitive existence in and around this part of the mountain range. They are considered extremely dangerous. However, these are the first murders actually attributed to the band.

INJURY AT EXCAVATION OF INDIAN BURIAL MOUND

An accident yesterday, at the site of an archeological excavation north of Grand Rapids, has left one man seriously injured and two others suffering from minor cuts and bruises.

Bertrand Hancock, who is credited with the discovery of the Eelins mound being excavated, is resting in Grand Rapids Hospital recovering from multiple injuries and broken bones stemming from the accident.

Apparently a large iron tripod used for surveyor's survey lines and leveling slipped down the side of the earthen mound, toppled over and trapped the unfortunate Mr. Hancock beneath it. Workers at the site can give no explanation for the accident but have informed the University of Michigan, which is in charge of the dig, has announced that despite the accident, work will continue as usual.

Mr. Hancock, a business graduate of the University, is married to Deborah Van Laaden, daughter of local Civil War hero Aaron Van Laaden and presently resides with the Van Laaden property where he first discovered the mound. Doctors have not released details regarding his injuries, but he is listed in fair condition and expected to recover.

FAILED.—A brute named Calloway, living on Fifth street, tried to beat his wife to death Monday night, but only succeeded in blacking her eyes, smashing her nose and tearing off part of one of her ears. She went for a warrant and he ran away, but her brother will have him arrested to assist with intent to kill if he comes back.

WHAT DID HE WANT?—The query up Michigan avenue is what on earth the burglar who broke into Coroner Griffin's office wanted. He must have known that coroners never have anything in their offices except a gunnysack, two broken chairs and a wax bust.

ONLY ONE.—There were twenty-four cases at the Central Station Court yesterday morning, about evenly divided between disturbing the peace and drunkenness, and out of that only one escaped fine or imprisonment. The gross amount of fines footed up $210.

Death of Mrs. Aaron Van Laaden.

It was announced today that Isabella Van Laaden, wife of the late Aaron Van Laaden, died yesterday at the result of a cut in the throat. Her daughter Virginia Van Laaden and the other woman had been in poor health for the last few years and was being confined to the home. An attendant succeeded and left while descending the stairway in the family home.

The Van Laaden name is well-known in Grand Rapids. Earlier members of the family were instrumental in the incorporation of the city, and the name Van Laaden can be found on many public buildings including library and art museum.

Mrs. Van Laaden is survived not only by her daughter Virginia, but by a grandson, Maurice, and another daughter, Deborah, now residing in Grosse Pointe. Private services are scheduled for tomorrow and the body will be interred in the family plot located on the Van Laaden property.

Hagen's Funeral.

The funeral of James Hagen, who was killed Tuesday by taking a drink of carbolic acid, will be held at 9 o'clock this morning. Hagen was not a Sunday drinker, so the reports of the accident stated. He did not make a practice of taking a drink every morning, and it is said that he missed the carbolic acid for some of experiment.

IS IT A MURDER?

No Clue Yet to the Missing Kennedy.

It is time for Police men to take an active hand endeavoring to clear up the mystery which surrounds the case of Thomas Kennedy it would seem as if another week should be lost. A week ago Monday evening Kennedy and his wife were visiting his brother in the eastern part of the city. He was holding their child on his knee when the fire bells rang an alarm, and as the headers glided past the house blocks away he handed her the child saying that he would go and see where the fire was. He was seen on Grathet street an hour after, conversing with two or three men, and nothing further can be learned. He is a man thirty-one years old, five inches, and at the evening was dressed in dark suit. At the conversation was agreed that he was temperate, steady, and loved his wife and child so fervently that he scarcely ever went out without them. He is a carpenter by trade, and was in the employ of the Cutcliffe brothers. He had been paid $27 or $28 by them on that day, and had the money in his pocket. His wife, who is almost crazy over his disappearance, says that they lived happily together, and that an hour before his disappearance they were speaking of their happiness and contentment. It seems hardly probable that a temperate, steady man in good work, getting along well, and having a loving wife and a handsome child, would leave home voluntarily without some explanation, nor is it likely that he would commit suicide. He was well-dressed, was gentlemanly in appearance, had considerable money, and there is reason to believe that he was enticed into some out-of-the-way place and murdered. There is much local interest manifested in the case, and it is hoped that some effort will be made to clear up the mystery in which it is confounded.

Pickpocket Arrested.

Last evening at the circus Detective Orford observed a man named Henry Stinson put his hand in the pocket of a woman named Yelsdeiver, and he collared him before he had succeeded in extracting his watch. The action of the detective was the first information the woman had that a thief was attempting to rob her. In the struggle between the detective and his prisoner the prisoner's pocket was torn away, what, O'Neil had been watching. Stinson for some time previous in his attempt upon Mrs. Yelsdeiver's pocket, and noticed that he made two unsuccessful efforts at pocket-picking.

A Philanthropist.

A lad ten years old who was waiting at the Central depot yesterday with his mother committed some breach of discipline and she took him over her knee. When she went to spank he began to kick, his battery philanthropic mood left to the same and he left the lady's lap with the remark that a piece of pine board where it would do the most good.

ELIXIR OF YOUTH. IS LIFE WORTH LIVING?

It is but if the utmost appreciation of the full meaning for anything. If, whether it be riches, fame and family, friends, the ELIXIR OF YOUTH, it is a question worthy of Spencerian force between Bright, Lane of Power, and Emerson and all mental exhilarants of any nature, arising from memory over anticipation or mental exhilaration. If effects quietly and permanently in life of young, of either sex, restores strength and restores the vigor of youth.

when you turned northward, east of the Big Black, I feared it was a mistake. I now wish to make a personal statement wherein that you were right and I was wrong.

Yours very truly,
"A. LINCOLN."

Another Union Victory!

Gen. Steele's Little Army Whips the Rebels.

Fort Gibson, Indian Territory, Jan. 20. To the Lincoln Union: Sir: I am [illegible]

Gen. Steele, with his army, sixty-five hundred strong, including twenty pieces of artillery, crossed the Arkansas river on the 22d, and offered battle to the rebel General Rook and Cooper, who had massed on his front 15,000 men. After a short show of resistance, the enemy commenced a retreat, which soon turned into a disorderly flight. They abandoned all pursuit.

Steele pursued them a hundred miles south of the Arkansas, to Perryville, which is only fifty miles from the Red River. At this point he captured and destroyed very commissary depot. They continued their flight to Boggy Depot, on Red River.

The Indian Territory is now clear of rebels. Hunt is now marching on Fort Smith, which we doubtless [illegible] without a struggle.

Address from the owner of the Pocahontas [illegible] to the Union army in honor Brandywine and Rainbow. The prospect is that the discouraged "all quiet" of that department will continue for some time.

ALLEN VAN LAADEN, of the Grand Rapids Van Laadens, died yesterday at his home. The result of an accidental self-inflicted wound received in the stomach. The accident was reported by Captain Aaron Van Laaden, a cousin of Allen presently home on leave from the Union army.

According to the report, Mr. Van Laaden was cleaning the pistol in an upstairs room at the Van Laaden residence when the weapon accidentally discharged, striking him full in the stomach. He expired before a doctor could be summoned. Graveside services will be held at the family home.

A HIT TO LITTLE WATERS.—By a rule of the Post Office Department which is pending for the entire of the law, if the amount of the postage stamp upon a letter does not fully prepay it, double the amount of the deficiency is charged to the addressee. Postmaster only the amount of the deficiency is charged. Those who, weighing the merest fraction over half an ounce, if put out with but a single stamp, is burdened with an additional instance of six cents, which the receiver must pay.

The New York Banks have accepted Secretary Chase's proposition to lend the Government thirty-five millions of dollars, amounting, however, that the treasury notes run one, two and three years, and that, if they take the first fifty millions of treasury notes, the remaining thirty five millions hereafter to be loaned, may be negotiated through the banks, if they choose to take them. It is doubtful if Secretary Chase will accede to these terms.

Two ragged little orphan whose parents paid more attention to the bottle than to the training of the children, were in the habit of seriously annoying their neighbors who lived close by with their noise with all joys in front of their house. One day the lady of the house came to the ARRIS VAN LAADEN.—It was learned today that Captain Aaron Van Laaden is dead. His body was found late yesterday evening in the woods near his home, apparently the victim of a freak hunting accident. Having left the house earlier in the day, the family became worried when he did not return in time for dinner. A search had been heard earlier in the afternoon, but was thought that Mr. Van Laaden had been delayed over game. The grim discovery made later cleared that Van Laaden, while creeping through a tangle of brush, had apparently fallen, causing his rifle to discharge, and killing him instantly.

Aaron Van Laaden, besides being well-known for his military exploits in defense of the Union, is also well-remembered for his untiring efforts to incorporate the city of Grand Rapids and his unstinting devotion to public causes. These include helping to establish the city's first library and its fire art museum.

Captain Van Laaden's widow was unavailable for comment. Funeral arrangements have not yet been made.

CRIMINALITY.

ASTOUNDING DEVELOPMENTS.

Deliberate Attempt to Starve a Victim Into Compliance.

The preliminary examinations have just been concluded, before Wm. D. Wilkins, United States Circuit Court Commissioner for the Eastern District of Michigan, in a case which exhibits a most astounding depravity and wickedness on the part of a person belonging to a class of individuals generally believed to be, and whose position and calling demands that they should be, benevolent and humane men. We refer to the surgeons and other officers of the late marine, both steamers and sail vessels.

Since the outrage committed nearly three years ago upon the person of Ida Farman, by the owner of one of the boats upon the Lake Shore Line, and which is a matter of record in this town, came to light and the cure of a shocked and indignant public, no such foul, calm and deliberate attempt at crime and the dehumanity of wounded virtue, as that detailed in the simple narrative testimony of Margaret Connors, given before the examiner of Friday last, in support of the grave charge made against the captain and one of the subordinate officers of the schooner Plover for cruelty and attempted outrage on her person.

The annals of ancient ages and barbarous times tell of starvation and cruelty practiced upon those who had fallen into the hands of demons in human shape, but let us, for the sake of humanity, hope that such instances as this, in a civilized and Christian country, may be Congressional Violence.

The whig papers here have very hilarity ously endeavoring to make capital against the democratic party, out of the recent disorderly scenes of violence in Congress, by which representing them as the result of democratic ascendency. With the action in the late disgraceful melee at Washington we have little sympathy. They are a disorderly affair to Congress and to the country. But we do claim the right to put the matter upon a proper footing and to show that the whig presses and the whig party should be the last to assume their own contrivance over others in the regard, and at our neighbor of the Cincinnati Enquirer has done it so well to our hand, we cheerfully adopt its remarks upon the subject. In regarding the strictures of a contemporary he says:

"It is well known that the Whigs, and Statters, and Clingmans have enacted scenes at Washington far more discreditable to Congress and destructive of liberty in the Legislative Department of Government, than any thing that ever occurred through the agency of Democrats. They were Whig leaders first in Congress, and undertook to bully Congress, the members and even the Speaker, the father of whom Mr. Polk, they resolved on murdering, and prepared themselves for it, in case he would afford the least pretext for an assault—And to make their purpose sure, they took occasion to insult him as he left the chair on the adjournment of the House. We heard as Whig censures them of it such outrageous proceedings. The actors did not happen to be democrats.

We recollect, too, about committees of ten thousand appointed to march to Washington City and rescue Gen. Jackson by violence of the deposites of the bank of the United States, of the attempt to assassinate that faithful public servant, and of the active and numerous insults put on him by political opponents.

We recollect further that a whig mob assailed President Tyler at the White House, for vetoing the bill for a new United States Bank, and dashed the doors of the Presidential mansion, as well as the doors of prominent democratic citizens of Washington with flinty excrements.

We recollect in addition, the blackguard attack of Mr. Crittenden on Mr. Allen, in the Senate of the United States.

And we have not forgotten that during the present session of Congress, Mr. Stanley, a leading whig, was even more gross by his language to Mr. Giddings than was Mr. Bell the other day to Mr. Colfax, and Mr. White.

We believe that on those several occasions the thunder of our neighbors' indignation were not unbottled, but kept in reserve for non-democratic offenders.

We have not the least objection to any exercises that may be put upon them by our whig contemporaries, for they deserve rebuke, and we are not disposed to interpose between it and them. We do, however, object to their attempting to convey the impression that such blackguard scenes are peculiarly democratic, and are the result of democratic principles, when we all know that the political lovers of the country from the inauguration of the elder Adams to the present hour, show that such scenes, as described by themselves, have in a majority of cases been with the prominent whigs. We desire to have the saddle put on the right horse. That is all."

DEATH OF YOUNG GRAND RAPIDS WOMAN.—Elizabeth Van Laaden, of Grand Rapids, died suddenly last night in the family home at three o'clock. She is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Avery Wentworth Van Laaden and brother Aaron. This sweet flow left the garden at the tender age of twenty years and her gentle presence will be sorely missed.

[illegible] AND PERSPECTIVE OF REVENUE.—It is a matter of extreme regret, that the large amount of talent displayed, and the heavy contributions of money expended in the United States, ostensibly for the benefit of the Christian community, should so accomplish more rational good than is done thereby. There remains a spirit of Persecution amongst them

FIRE.—A destructive fire was eaging in Philadelphia on Wednesday, at 1 A. M., in the centre of the business portion of the city. On Sixth and Chestnut streets, the Belvidere [illegible] place of amusement and the Jewish Buildings, were on fire, and the fire was communicating to the valuable surrounding property.

GRAPE CULTURE IN MISSOURI.—A Swiss colony advertises for 25,000 acres of land in Missouri, upon which they propose to settle, with $100,000 capital. They will go largely into the grape culture.

MORE MISSIONS.—On Sunday, the packet ship Westmoreland arrived at Philadelphia, with 353 Mormons, bound for Utah.

ANOTHER BEAUTY.—Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Van Laaden announce the birth of a baby girl at Mossy Bayou. The gentle stranger will be remembered as Miss Beatrice Smith of Grand Rapids.

GREAT WESTERN RAILROAD.—The Great Western Railway of Canada are inviting in the English market, tenders for five and a half per cent. debenture bonds, for a period of twenty years.—These loans are intended to replace the six per cent bonds falling due on the 1st of October next, and are, in the first instance, offered to the holders of those securities.

ROBBERY AND MURDER.—A man named Jackson, of Westfield, Mass., was robbed and murdered on Monday night, in Russell, by a man named Jones, of Blanford. Jones has only been out of the State Prison three months. He has been arrested.

FIRE AT ZANESVILLE.—SAW MILL, LUMBER AND OTHER PROPERTY.—Last Sunday afternoon the saw mill at Zanesville, known as the Shepard mill, was entirely consumed by fire, together with some 750,000 feet of lumber, mill docks, &c. The mill was owned by Messrs. Prince, Rogers & Co., of New York, and was worth some $30,000. John Drake, Esq., of Lewis Saginaw, had leased the mill for the season. The loss of lumber falls principally upon citizens of Zanesville.—Messrs. T. A. Pain & Co. and N. Russell,—whose united loss we have heard estimated at between $6,000 and $7,000.

GOOD CHARACTER TO PAY.—Berlin thieves begin to exhibit great refinement in their mode of pursuing. One of them, having a fancy for the fine fat pigs of a householder, at Moabit, introduced themselves into the city and, in order to secure themselves from being betrayed by the squeals of their victims, chloroformed both, and then quietly proceeded to slay and cut them up.

CAPTURE OF A NOTED FELON.—P. B. Manchester, a noted banker, who committed forgeries and robberies in Cincinnati, about two and a half years ago, to the amount of $300,000, was arrested at the Michigan Central depot yesterday morning through the instrumentality of a Detroit mail merchant who had been floored by him. The merchant in question recognized his forger, and proposed his conductor to engage a police officer on the arrival of the train, and when Manchester stepped off the cars, he was arrested.
